PANCAKE BELLS

In olden times in England, the day before Ash Wednesday was called Pancake Tuesday,

Because on that day it was the custom to have a great feast of pancakes;

the populace to this feast were known as Pancake Bells.

No bells are needed to call attention to the delicious hot pancakes served at CHILDS.

PORTER, Ind., Feb. 25.—A complete check up by railroad officials and the coroners of the bodies in the Chesterton Morgue at 9 o'clock to-night revealed that there were not more than thirty-seven known dead in the Michigan Central-New York Central wreck last night. The discrepancy between this count and the one of more than forty previously announced by Ceroner H. O. Selpel was found to be due to the mutilated condition of some of the dead. In some cases a body badly mangled had been counted as two. The list of identified dead follows: By the Associated Press.

substantiated the statement of Joe

"Far down each track is an appliance which rings a bell in the tower when a train hits it. Last night when we heard the bell we saw it was the New York Central. About thirty seeonds later the Michigan Central belt rang. Joe set the signals against the Michigan Central, and opening the track for the New York Central, we sat peering down the New York Central tracks, watching the headlight gradually grow larger and larger. We hand't noticed the Michigan Central. "The New York Central tracks, watching the headlight gradually grow larger and larger, and finally its outlines were plainly visible. Suddenly I heard Joe shout: My God. Charley, the M. C. is coming through the block.' I turned quickly to the right and there, not 150 feet away, was the Michigan Central, No. 20, crashing down at sixty miles an hour. Joe jumped for the door and I jumped after him.

"We heard a terrific grinding smash. There was a hiss of steam, a brilliant red glare lighted up the tower windows breaking—tingled in my ears and the tower continued to rock.

"We lay against the door for a moment and then collapsed to the floor. A few seconds later Joe got up and dashed downstairs. I followed him

"I went down to the wreckage. The conductor of one of the trains came up and tried to ask me something. He couldn't talk, he was shaking so, and I guess I couldn't have answered. I don't remember much after that."

Whitehead explained that the signal system was interlocking, so both tracks could not have been open at the same time. He sald that the Michigan Central probably was making sixty miles an hour.

FIVE N. Y. RESIDENTS INJURED IN WRECK

Five New York residents were injured in the New York Central Raliroad wreck at Porter, Ind., Sunday night, according to a statement given out at the Grand Central Terminal yesterday, Miss Frances Kennedy, an actress living at the Hotel Plaza and at 995 Ashland Block, Chicago, received a fracture of the nose; Charles H. Foster, 2469 Seventh avenue, had his left arm and left knee injured; Norman E. Webster, 228 West Seventy-first street, was shaken up, and George W. Davis, 258 Broadway, received injuries to his back, neck and head. H. C. Klintrup of Mountain Lake, N. J., was bruised.

An early list of persons injured in the smash contained the name of Madge Kennedy, the motion picture actrees. Investigation developed the fact that Miss Kennedy was in New York and that her name had been confused with that of Miss Frances Kennedy, actress.

The suggestions made by the United States do not amount to an offer of mediation or arbitration, Under Secretary of State Department, he added, had expressed a firm attitude of opposition to make a substitute for arbitration as a means of settling the question.

No account of the situation was received from Costa Rican sources, and the State Department had not been advised, Mr. Davis said, whether the occupation of the territory in question was a formal move on the part of Costa Rica or simply the act of an independent expelition of Costa Ricans.

Panama's request for the return of arms seized by the Canal Zone authorities in 1916, received by the State Department to-day, will not be compiled with, Mr. Davis said. The arms and ammunition, he stated, had been shipped to the United States and sold, and the

IDIALOGUED FROM STORIES OF ARCOLA USERS

"Come along in and see my new heating plant', says my neighbor Johnson. 'It's a crackeriack!'

"Sure it was. But Johnson could afford a big heater and all them pipes. His old man left a barrel o' money. All I ever inherited was $2.32-my father's bank account. Besides my shanty didn't have no cellar.

"Well, he kept callin' me in, till I says one day:

"Bill, you're violatin' scripture-makin' a fellow envious. If you and me was young and you married my best girl, I s'pose you'd drag me in to tell me she was yourn.'

"One day Joe Kindler, who puts in heating plants, come along and sold me an ARCOLA in six minutes. I found out a fellow don't need a lot o' money to get a hot-water radiator in every room, and save coal and work. Today I don't take no back seat for Johnson."

The IDEAL-ARCOLA places the cottage, with or without cellar, on the heating plane of the First Mansion in the Land. Gives low-cost healthful warmth, through hotwater radiators, to the small home, store or school.

The Arcola heats all rooms on less fuel than a stove requires for one room. The complete system, installed by your local dealer, costs but little more than a stove for > each room; and far less than old expense for a hot-water heating system. No fire risk; children cannot burn themselves.

> The water-jacketed ARCOLA is of itself a radiator. Replaces stoves, wastes no heat up chimneys, leaks no coal gas. Each tenant may have a separate ARCOLA. If used to heat part of building, extra sections may be added later.
